Workshop Goals

Our goal is to develop a group of young, interdisciplinary artists who will form the core of our Young Artists Initiative and continue to work with us by championing and cultivating the humanities in their communities. We strive to help them develop as artists and thinking, creative human beings that are skilled at expressing their unique experiences of the world around them.

Process

We will achieve this goal through intensive training that will include writing, voice & speech, text analysis, team building, and constructive critique. We will offer them the tools to connect physical and vocal performance. Mastery of these skills will provide them with a cohesive communication tool and with a structured way of working that is applicable to the creation of interdisciplinary art.

"We're about the work. We're about craft. We're about Mastery. We're about exploring the human experience in a way that will resonate with our peers, our community and our world."

Participants will develop:

- Self Esteem
- Self Discipline
- Self Control
- Self Exploration
- Self Realization

Through Self Expression

The Details

We will accept a maximum of twelve (12) young artists between the ages of 14 and 18. Qualified younger applicants may be considered.

The workshop will meet twice weekly from 3:45-6:00 PM beginning the week of November 4, 2013.

We plan to showcase our discoveries for the community on a quarterly schedule. Specific dates and times will be announced at a later date.

The Program and Community Showcase events will take place at:

Dead Poet Books: 937 S. Rainbow Blvd., Las Vegas, NV 89146

Participants are expected to participate in all sessions and all showcases.

The mandate of Humanity Thru Art involves service to the community. As such, we will be calculating the hours spent with us as community service for those who wish to put that time toward community service requirements for educational institutions that take such things into account.

Food and transportation will not be provided. This is a professional workshop opportunity. This is not a school activity, or an after school childcare program.

Participation should be based solely on the skills and commitment of the young artist.

The application materials must be completed by the prospective participant. Parents cannot enroll their children in this program.

At Humanity Thru Art it is our mission to assist our communities in developing greater humanity through the exploration and nurturing of the creative spark that exists within all of us.

We need only take the time to find that spark, let it feel the wind, develop it through study and self expression, and allow it to inspire those aspects of ourselves that have something unique to add to the narrative of human experience. We are an interdisciplinary arts collective intent on providing various opportunities for exploration and study.
